

Corporate Social Responsibility and HIV/AIDS—*Promoting Partnerships

---

Johnson & Johnson and its Family of Companies rely heavily on community-based organizations working on the front lines of the HIV/AIDS pandemic. Collaborations and partnerships with these experienced organizations ensure that the needs of local communities are being met in appropriate, meaningful and effective ways. Johnson & Johnson promotes partnerships with a range of organizations from international nongovernmental organizations to grassroots groups. Some of our major partners include the following organizations:

Partner	Project
African Medical Research Foundation	Testing and counseling Services in the Sikiliza Leo Community Development Project in rural Uganda
Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation	Reducing mother-to-child transmission through the Call to Action project
CARE International	Providing personal care products to people living with HIV/AIDS in Haiti
Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria	Running grant development and implementation workshops in South and Central Africa to enable countries to access grant monies from the Global Fund and run funded program effectively
Humana People to People	Mobilizing communities door-to-door in South Africa
International Center for Equal Healthcare Access	Training US clinical HIV treatment providers to train colleagues in the developing world
International Partnership for Microbicides	Recipient of a royalty-free license from Tibotec Pharmaceuticals Limited to develop, manufacture and distribute an antiretroviral that can be incorporated into a microbicide